A Message from Our Host

Hola Amigas!

Bienvenidas to Laramie County Community College! On behalf of the LCCC family, it is my great pleasure to continue the tradition of hosting the Wyoming Latina Youth Conference! Our Latina and Latino community is a growing and ever-important part of our community, Laramie County, and Wyoming, and for that reason I am honored to have your presence on our campus for this year's conference.

LCCC is happy to support you in your preparation for the future, starting with the Wyoming Latina Youth Conference. I wish you the very best in your future and applaud your participation in this worthy event!

¡Buena suerte!

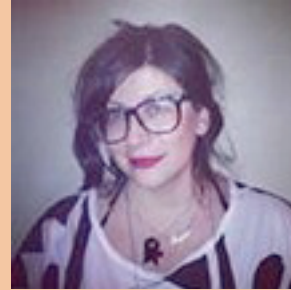

Warmest regards,

Dr. Joe Schaffer

The Power of Choice Wyoming Latina Youth Conference

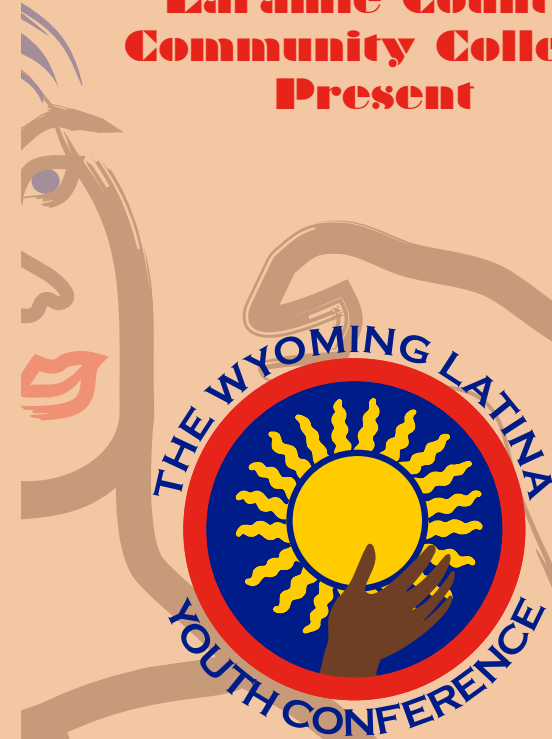

*Keynote Speaker
Julianne Escobedo Shepherd*

Julianne Escobedo Shepherd is a Brooklyn-based writer and editor with a focus on music, style, and culture, who contributes to Rolling Stone, Vogue, SPIN, VIBE, Interview, New York Magazine, the New York Times, and many other publications. She is also a staff writer at Rookie, a website for teen girls; a professor of writing at the Clive Davis School of Recorded Music at New York University; and the host and DJ of Universópolis, a show focusing on music from Latin America and the diaspora, on East Village Radio (evr.com).

Born in Cheyenne, Wyoming, she attended Central High School, where she was awarded multiple scholarships to U-Cross, a teen writing camp outside Sheridan. Her focus is music, fashion, and culture journalism; she has interviewed musicians ranging from Nicki Minaj, Skrillex, and Cyndi Lauper, to Hollywood types such as John Leguizamo, Maggie Gyllenhaal, and John Singleton. She is currently working on a book about the history of voguing in New York City.
